Would Set Deadline on Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmunds S. Muskie says he wants to give air polluters three years to clean their smokestacks and exhaust pipes as part of a control package that would include some type of national emission standards.

The Maine Democrat predicted passage of significant air and solid waste laws by Labor Day.

Proposed legislation is being drafted on Muskie's air and water pollution subcommittee.

Muskie told newsmen Tuesday an air pollution bill probably would combine air quality standards with some limits on emissions.

"We're trying to work out something that would avoid the built-in traps of national standards," Muskie said. The chief difficulty is that metropolitan areas require tougher controls than those needed in rural areas.

He said the chief air polluter is the automobile. He indicated such steps as strict traffic controls and new techniques in highway planning will be needed to supplement whatever pollution control devices become available.

He said air standards would be pegged to health hazards but said any legislation would contain a clear statement of future national goals going far beyond that.

Muskie criticized as inadequate the $4 billion the Nixon administration seeks over the next four years as the federal share of a $10-billion waste treatment facility program.

He commented in advance of testimony today in which Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott defended the Republican effort and said the $10 billion is "sufficient to meet all municipal waste treatment needs through 1970."

Rockefeller to Run for Third Term

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — To the surprise of no one, Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, 58, announced Tuesday he will seek a third term as the state's first Republican chief executive since Reconstruction.

Rockefeller confirmed the foregone conclusion, and, as had been reported in news stories weeks ago, designated Lt. Gov. Maurice L. "Footsie" Britt as campaign manager.

The announcement came at a news conference attended by about 400 Rockefeller supporters, whose cheers and applause on about 20 occasions gave the affair the air of a political rally.

"To quit now, I know in my own heart, would impose on me a feeling of guilt for the rest of my days," Rockefeller said.

This came despite a 1964 "statement of beliefs" in which Rockefeller said he would seek no more than two terms. In recent weeks he had laid the groundwork for discarding that tenet by saying he had been naive to make the pledge.

"My part of this job is not yet finished," the governor said Tuesday. "It is my commitment to make our government the government of the people, and keep us on the wonderful course of progress we are just beginning to enjoy."

"If this is the case, then my candidacy cannot be construed as breaking faith," Rockefeller said. "I will humbly accept the judgement of the people."

Lester L. Gibbs 64, of North Little Rock and James "Uncle Mac" MacKrell, 68, also of North Little Rock, filed earlier for the Republican party nomination for governor.

The Rockefeller news conference was in the ballroom of the Hotel Marion. Two floors of the hotel had been reserved earlier as a campaign headquarters for the governor.

When Rockefeller made his announcement, the crowd applauded for about 30 seconds. "It sounds like I did the right thing," Rockefeller laughed.

William Kelly of Little Rock, chairman of the Pulaski County GOP Committee, gave Rockefeller a $1,500 check to pay the fee to filing for the governor's race. Rockefeller paid the fee at once and said he would complete the filing procedure later at the office of Secretary of State Kelly Bryant.

Asked if he would commit himself to serving no more than a third term, if elected, Rockefeller chuckled. "Having made one mistake (my pledging to serve only two), I'm not going to repeat it."

Rockefeller said that a call for more state taxes would not be a major issue in his campaign plan, but added, "I won't back away from it."

His race in 1968 was marked by his announced intention to request additional state taxes, although he did not reveal how large a tax boost he would seek. After he was elected, Rockefeller requested a $95 million tax hike, but the General Assembly approved only about $22 million in new taxes.

The crowd of supporters included members of the Rockefeller administration and staff.

Asked about his primary opponents, Rockefeller said he expected a "musical primary," since Gibbs once led a band and MacKrell sang base in a quartet.

"I can't sing, but I'm practicing up on my whistling," Rockefeller said.

Mrs. Rockefeller pinned a "WR 1970" campaign button on her husband and kissed him. Britt, who attended with his wife, spoke briefly, saying he would be a "tough and mean" campaign manager. He said Rockefeller was willing, to make "the personal sacrifice to give two more years."

Rockefeller's prepared statement, which he read through an 18-minute period, said that "making us a truly two-party state has required an almost fanatical effort to avoid letting our government go back to where it was for so long—into the hands of a few powerful politicians."

Revival Services at Bell's Chapel

three West Germans as well as the Americans and the Lebanese. All were staying in the hotel.

Guests of other nationalities were told they were free to leave Tuesday night, but in the blacked-out, embattled Jordanian capital there was nowhere for them to go.

Carrying submachine guns and wearing hand grenades at their belts, the guerrillas invaded the unguarded hotel Tuesday afternoon. They took up firing positions on bedroom balconies and placed guards at every exit.

Most of the guests spent the night huddled in the hotel basement. Neeld said Amman had been without power for nearly 24 hours, and the guests groped their way along the hotel corridors by candlelight. But the hostages were free to do as they pleased inside the hotel and none was ill treated.

Amman Radio's announcement of the Hussein-Arafat agreement left one cardinal point unclear: whether Hussein was giving the guerrillas a green light for operations against Israel or whether the commandos had agreed to curtail their raids.

In Beirut an official of the Popular Front said guerrilla radio messages from Amman reported scattered shooting today despite the announced agreement.

"It's not as heavy as yesterday, but we have reports of some killed and wounded this morning," said the guerrilla official.

Street fighting broke out in Amman early Tuesday when Jordanian troops took the offensive against the guerrillas who had repeatedly stood off government attempts to moderate their attacks on Israel.

Fact-Finders Support War in Cambodia

By CARL C. CRAFT

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most members of a fact-seeking squad of senators, congressmen, governors and White House aides say their Southeast Asian trip reinforces President Nixon's estimate of the military success of his Cambodian maneuver.

Arriving here Tuesday night after a swift visit to battle zones of Vietnam and Cambodia, many in the 13-man VIP delegation—picked by the White House in collaboration with the Senate and House Armed Services committees—described it as an informative journey.

Although most declined to disclose their conclusions before today's scheduled meeting with Nixon, Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, a Republican, said his report on the Cambodian step indicates "the vast majority of those of us who were there feel it was a success."

"We hope that it will be a long-term success," he added. "Nobody can predict forever into the future—but what has been done has been good for the American people."

However, Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., refused to discuss his findings with newsmen before talking them over with Nixon.

McIntyre, who had said he decided to go on the trip to "prevent a snow job" by pro-administration officials, reported he felt it "is only proper that I meet with the President before discussing my findings with members of the press."

"I certainly had a fast trip. I'll tell you that," he said.

Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., described Nixon's Cambodian decision as "a great success—probably the most important single military achievement of this entire unfortunate war."

Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., said he was pleased to "see the progress that had been made in pacification."

Shafer said the delegation members attempted to "answer questions that are on the minds of all Americans—maybe we won't answer them to the satisfaction of everybody, but at least we are going to tell the truth about what we saw, heard and learned."

Herbert Klein, Nixon's communications director, said it was a coincidence the group returned on the eve of the Senate's vote on an administration-backed move to grant Nixon authority to take any action needed to protect U.S. troops in Vietnam. The amendment, proposed by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., is due for a vote Thursday.

"Obviously these men wanted to be back to vote," Klein said, but "I don't feel there's any likelihood that this trip would have any effect on that vote one way or the other."

Earlier Tuesday Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said the adoption of this amendment would open the door for "another Vietnam in Cambodia, and perhaps for still others elsewhere."

The Montana Senator termed it "the critical vote on this issue."

"Reject it," he recommended, "and the Senate will say that the way out of Vietnam is not by way of Cambodia."

Approval, he added, will mean the Senate "will still say that the way out of Vietnam is not by way of Cambodia, but only if the executive branch also says the same thing."

Joining McIntyre, Murphy, Cannon, Shafer and Klein on the trip to Vietnam and Cambodia were Sen. John Tower, R-Tex.; Reps. Melvin Price, D-Ill., William G. Bray, R-Ind., G. William Whitehurst, R-Va., and O. C. Fisher, D-Tex.; Govs. John A. Love of Colorado, a Republican, and Robert E. McNair of South Carolina, a Democrat, and Bryce Harlow, the White House's congressional liaison man.

HELEN HELP US!

VIETNAM MAIL SERVICE FOUND WANTING

Dear Helen: My husband is in the thick of the fighting. He's been in Cambodia, and he faces danger every day. So he and his fellow Servicemen need all the morale they can get.

Think how discouraging it is when they come back to base camp after being out two weeks — and find no letters waiting. This isn't because the home folks have forgotten them, but how do they know that? I write every day — in all I have sent my husband 333 letters, plus food packages and post cards. Yet it's sometimes almost a month between my letters, and then he gets about 15 at once. Even though underneath he KNOWS I'm writing, he can't help wondering if something has gone wrong. The other day his letter said, "It's been so long since I've heard from you I guess I don't have anything to come home to." Thinking that, a man might get careless on the battlefield.

I guess mail has a lower priority than munition and supplies to the bases, why not mail? I talked to the Red Cross and found they only send emergency messages. I called the office of our Congressman. Now I'm getting up a petition.

If anyone else has problems with mail deliveries in Vietnam, I hope they'll join me in asking "Why?" — A WAITING WIFE

Dear Wife: According to my mail, many have your problem. Let's hope it can be lessened, er she displayed several articles of handcraft. Mrs. Rosalie Willett won the Surprise Package, and she and Mrs. Claudia England received gifts from Secret Pals.

Members answered the roll call with "my suggestion for getting the amount of milk products needed daily in the diet." Mrs. Cash read a poem entitled "Conceit." All repeated the Homemakers Creed.

During the social hour, assorted tidbits were served with cold drinks. In July there will be a meeting at Fair Park with Mrs. Claudia England, hostess.

COLLEGE NOTE

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy L. Bright both made the Dean's List for the spring semester at Oklahoma State University at Stillwater, Okla. Mrs. Bright, nee Brenda Underwood, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Underwood, and Mr. Bright is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Bright.

TEA FOR MISS BRACY

Miss Becky Bracy of Batesville, who will become the bride of Lance Jones on Saturday, June 13, was honored with a tea at the Heritage House Monday, June 8 with her fiancé's mother, Mrs. Haskell Jones, serving as hostess.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Helen Hatch and Miss Mary Anita Laseter, who showed them into the reception rooms. In the receiving line were the hostess; the honoree; Mrs. Spencer Bracy and Mrs. Edgar Leonard, mother and aunt, respectively, of the bride-elect and both of Batesville. Mrs. David Heath and Miss Carol Heath, aunt and cousin, respectively, of the groom-elect and both of Cincinnati, O.

Miss Bracy was attired in a pink tulle dress and pinned a white orchid at her shoulder. Spring flowers were seen at vantage points, and members of the house party had daisy corsages.

In the dining room the serving table was centered with large daisies. Mrs. Jim Sewell and Mrs. Randall Leister poured the coffee and Mrs. Harry Phillips and Mrs. A. C. Sinyard, the punch. Mrs. Ralph Lehman and Mrs. James Ellis served the cake squares, all at alternating hours.

Assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Tillie Teveson, grandmother of the groom-elect, Mrs. R. L. Gosnell, Miss Elleen Renwick, Miss Paula McClellan, Miss Mary Jo McClellan, Miss Connie Sewell, and Miss Peggy Lehman.

Miss Sharon Heath of Cincinnati, O., cousin of the groom-elect, presided at the guest book, where 125 registered.

DINNER FOR MISS BRACY

Mrs. R.L. Gosnell had a dinner honoring Miss Becky Bracy of Batesville and Lance Jones, popular engaged couple, on June 8 at the Heritage House. A yellow rose corsage was pinned to the shoulder of Miss Bracy's tulle dress, and the guests of honor were presented a gift of silver by the hostess.

Daisies were used to decorate the table where covers were laid for 12. They included: Mrs. Spencer Bracy and Mrs. Edgar Leonard, both of Batesville; Mr. and Mrs. Haskell Jones; Mr. and Mrs. David Heath; Carol, Sharon and Mike,

Cincinnati, O.; the honoree and the hostess.

FISH FRY

A fish fry at Fair Park was given Tuesday, June 9 for Barry Matthews, who finished college in Rolla, Mo., this past week and will be leaving Friday for Germany to join his parents, Chief M.Sgt. and Mrs. "Chuck" Matthews. Sgt. Matthews is in the Air Force.

Ward and Johnny Weathersby and their families were hosts for the outing.

THE J. D. LUCK REUNION

The J. D. Luck family reunion was held again this year as has been the custom for many years. The three day affair Thurs. Fri. and Sat. 4th, 5th. and 6th. of this month, June, was enjoyed by a group of 40 members, the 3rd. consecutive year at Beavers Bend State Park in Oklahoma, near Broken Bow.

The new youth camp with adequate facilities and accommodations is an ideal place for an occasion as this. The cafeteria, large dining area, the large bathhouse besides the private rooms with showers, enables everyone to feel at home and enjoy hours of rest or play.

Badminton, skating, fishing, boating and many different kinds of card games as well as old fashion reminiscence was enjoyed.

Friday night the President, Odell Luck of Hope, Arkansas called the group to order and Lynn Luck of Idabel, Okla. opened the meeting with prayer.

Calvin Luck of Anadarko, Okla. gave the devotional on "Sowing good Seed or Bad Seed, Sowing in Bad Soil or in Good Soil?" He closed the Devotional with a very inspiring reading, based on the Bible and a few lines from Shakespeare.

This was read while his daughter played softly on the guitar. During the business session families were recognized. Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Luck's son Jerry and his family of four traveled the greatest distance, coming from Honolulu and adding to the affair by bringing beautiful native fresh pineapples.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Charles Luck of Denton, Texas. The group enjoyed singing and the Luck reunion was well spent.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill

Veeck, who owned the St. Louis Browns, the exploding scoreboard, was expected today to fire the final shots in Curt Flood's $3 million antitrust suit against the short.

The flamboyant, unconventional Veeck, who like Ted Williams rarely wears a tie, was scheduled to be the final witness for Flood before his suit challenging baseball's reserve system goes to Judge Irving Ben Cooper for a decision.

Veeck, who owned the St. Louis Browns, Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox, is the only witness for the plaintiff who can bring to the court room an owner's perspective on costs and problems within the framework of the reserve system.

Veeck's appearance is expected to draw a full courtroom crowd, and two of the main participants who have been absent for several days—Flood, and Justice Arthur Goldberg, who is representing Flood but has been campaigning for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

In testimony Tuesday that paved the way for today's wind-up session, Marvin Miller, executive director of the players' association, was recalled to the stand as a rebuttal witness for Flood after the defense had rested its case.

Miller contradicted testimony by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and John Gaherin, labor negotiator for the owners, that negotiations aimed at modifying the reserve system through collective bargaining had ended because Flood had instituted suit.

"There was no difference whatsoever in discussion," said Miller, "before news that Curt Flood intended to file a suit, or after."

Miller also took exception to a statement by Gaherin that the players' association had asked for a halt in discussions for fear that continuing them would harm Flood's court case.

"The statement was completely inaccurate—it was quite the reverse," Miller said. "We said if there were appropriate amendments, there would be no action. If we were able to agree on revisions, the plaintiff would withdraw his suit."

Jay Topkis, questioning Miller, continued to emphasize the position of the owners on bargaining to modify the reserve system—which Flood contends enable baseball to operate legally in restraint of trade—by asking Miller if he considered the discussions that had taken place "collective bargaining."

Miller said he didn't. "Has management proposed any modification of the system?" asked Topkis.

"No," replied Miller. Miller also disagreed with testimony by Kuhn and other defense witnesses that modifying the system would affect the level of the sport's integrity.

Miller said he did not think anything "would result in a player not doing his best for any reason" in that he didn't think the owners would become involved in tampering in "terms of attempting bribery on the basis of future employment."

He also noted that professional football had thrived without a reserve system and that professional baseball's integrity had not suffered in the public eye.

McLain Files Petition in Bankruptcy

DETROIT (AP) — Suspended Detroit Tiger pitching ace Denny McLain, who earned an estimated $200,000 in 1969, has filed for bankruptcy, admitting unsecured claims of about $400,000.

McLain's attorney, William Aikens, said that aside from the pitcher's interest in various business ventures, "which are of questionable value, the petition and schedules filed in U.S. Bankruptcy Court Tuesday show that McLain has virtually no assets."

He said he advised McLain the bankruptcy declaration was the only way to straighten out his tangled finances.

McLain, suspended earlier this year by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn for alleged involvement in bookmaking activities, is scheduled to go back on the Tigers payroll in three weeks.

McLain earned an estimated $200,000 in 1969 from the Tigers and personal appearances. He claimed he had no income after his suspension.

Bob Lemon New Pilot at K.C.

By ROBERT MOORE

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Bob Lemon, one-fourth of the Cleveland Indians' vaunted pitching brigade of the late 1940s and early 1950s, at last has realized a desire that has sifted through his dreams for 12 long years.

He's been named manager of the Kansas City Royals.

The Royals fired Charlie Metro and appointed pitching coach Lemon as his successor Tuesday. A few hours later the team went on its wild west scoring spree of the season and clobbered the Washington Senators 8-1.

"All I've thought of since I left the big leagues as a player in 1958 was coming back as a manager," said Lemon, sitting almost scholarly and erect and appearing more like a banker than a baseball manager. "I hate to get the job under these circumstances. Charlie Metro worked hard. He conditioned this club well. I just hope I'm the one who can get it all together."

Lemon admits he has worries. The biggest could be a four-man pitching rotation, something Lemon's own managers using Cleveland's golden decade, Lou Boudreau and Al Lopez, didn't have to think about.

Boudreau and then Lopez had what many regard as the greatest pitching rotation in baseball history. . . . Bob Feller, Early Wynn, Mike Garcia and Lemon.

Crippled Phils Beat Atlanta

By HAL ROCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
There's a little ache here and there but Doc Edwards doesn't care. His pains are nothing compared to the things that happened to Philadelphia's first four catchers this year.

Edwards started the season in the relative peace and serenity of the Phillies' bullpen as a member of Manager Frank Lucchesi's coaching staff. No aches and pains there.

But suddenly Phillie catchers started dropping left and right. Tim McCarver and Mike Ryan both broke their right hands, unbelievably in the very same inning. Mike Compton hurt his back and then Del Bates hurt his hand.

The organization virtually depleted of receivers, Lucchesi did what any good manager does in a pinch. He went to the bullpen and suddenly 32-year-old Doc Edwards, was a big league catcher again.

Tuesday night Edwards played his third game since being activated and singled in both Phillie runs in a 2-1 victory over Atlanta. Two hits gave him 5-for-11 and three RBIs since he went to work behind the plate. Life in the bullpen was never like this.

In other National League games Tuesday, New York trimmed Houston 2-1, Cincinnati dominated Montreal 6-4, St. Louis blanked Los Angeles 4-0, Chicago defeated San Diego 7-3 and Pittsburgh dropped San Francisco 5-1.

In the American League, Kansas City blistered Washington 8-1, Chicago dropped Boston 4-2, Detroit whipped Milwaukee 8-3, Oakland took Cleveland 5-2, New York defeated Minnesota 5-2, and California dumped Baltimore 7-5 in 11 innings.

"My legs were a little stiff at first," admitted Edwards "but I'm okay now. It's great to be helping out. I didn't think I'd go this far."

Edwards was drafted for duty Saturday in Houston and had three hits, driving in one run and scoring another. Then he not only singled in both runs Tuesday, but picked pinch runner Sonny Jackson off first base in the ninth inning.

The heroics haven't turned Edwards' head. "If I was the manager," he said, "I'd put McCarver and Ryan back as soon as I could. I don't worry out there. I'm relaxed. When this is over, I only have to travel back to the bullpen."

The Cardinals also reached into the bullpen and came up with Chuck Taylor, who made his first start after 21 relief appearances and shut out the Dodgers on five hits.

Lou Brock, Jose Cardenal and Joe Torre had two hits apiece for the Cards, who ended Claude Osteen's personal five-game winning streak.

Tom Seaver throttled Houston on three hits and pitched the Mets to their fifth straight victory over the Astros. Wayne Garrett homered for New York and Denis Menke connected for the Astros.

The victory was Seaver's first since May 15 and ended a four-game spin for the 1969 Cy Young Award winner.

Steve Blass halted an even longer dry spell, pitching Pittsburgh past San Francisco. It was his first victory since April 22—a seven week span in which he had lost seven games.

Willie Stargell hammered a two-run homer for the Pirates and Blass, 3-8, contributed a single and double as Pittsburgh beat Juan Marichal, 2-5.

Ferguson Jenkins pulled his record to 6-7 pitching the Cubs past San Diego. It was the third straight victory for the big right-hander, who struck out 12 in eight innings.

Paul Popovich keyed a four-run Chicago first inning with a leadoff homer.

Cincinnati won its fourth straight and ninth in the last 10 games, beating Montreal and opening a 10-game bulge in the National League's West Division.

Clay Carroll choked off an Expo rally in the seventh inning and then Wayne Granger preserved the victory with two scoreless innings of relief, saving it for Carroll, 7-2.

Dan Sikes Leads Open Qualifiers

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Dan Sikes not only considers himself a pretty good golfer, he proved it Tuesday by leading the sectional qualifying for the U.S. Open.

Sikes, a four veteran, shot a sizzling nine-under-par 135 over 36 holes at Atlanta for the best score turned in at seven qualifying sites around the country where 48' players competed for 77 openings.

"I played as well as I could play," said Sikes after carding 10 birdies on the 6,942-yard East Lake Country Club course. "Until I got tired, I didn't make a bogey, and that came on the 16th in my afternoon round."

"I was real nervous starting out. If you consider yourself a good player, you feel like you've got to make it."

His rounds were his 17th consecutive competitive sub-par rounds, covering play in the Atlanta, Memphis and Charlotte tour tournaments.

Most of the other four veterans who tried Tuesday for a spot in the Open at Chaska, Minn., June 18-21 made it, but the toll included two former Open and PGA champions and Doug Sanders, Jack Fleckman, Grier Jones, Mike Souchak and Randy Glover.

Sanders, 152, Fleckman, 150, and Larry Hinson, 148, missed the cut at the Cog's Hill course in Chicago where 139 players competed for 35 berths.

Former Open champ Ed Furgol and former PGA winners Jim Turnesa and Doug Ford, along with Jones, failed to make it at Woodmere, N.Y., while Glover missed at Atlanta, former Open winner Lew Worsham was cut at Pittsburgh and Souchak at Detroit.

Mason Rudolph, with a seven-under-par 137, led a batch of pros who made it at Chicago, where the Western Open will be played this week. Monty Kaser was next at 139 and Bob Goalby, Labron Harris, Chris Blocker and Don Bies had 141s.

Two former open champions, Tommy Bolt and Jack Fleck, were in at 142, Bog, Shaw 143, Chi Chi Rodriguez 145 and Gay Brewer 147.

Paul Horney had a six-under-par 136 in a field of 107 trying for 13 spots at Woodmere, two strokes better than last week's British Amateur runnerup, Bill Hyndman of Philadelphia. Tom Nieporte won a playoff for the final place.

Tour veteran Lar Ziegler led at St. Louis with a 142, with Steve Reid qualifying at 148 and Dutch Harrison missing, and three young pros led the way in the other sites.

Mike Hill, younger brother of tour hot shot Dave Hill, posted a 138, six under par, in a field of 33 hopefuls at Detroit. He was joined by George Knudson and Al Balding at 142.

Bobby Cole, a 22-year-old South African, also carded a six-under-par 138 at Pittsburgh, and Ricky Meissner of Bullrun, Va., qualified in his 10th month as a pro with a 141, three-under-par, at Burtonsville, Md., near Washington, D.C. Lee Elder also made it at 145.

A total of 150 players will compete in the Open.

Englishman Wants to Buy Yankees

LONDON (AP) — Jerome D. Hoffman, president of a London investment company, confirmed today that he is going to try to buy the New York Yankees.

"We also want the real estate of the Yankee Stadium," he said.

Hoffman said he was leaving for New York today to meet with former Mayor Robert Wagner before completing details of the offer being made to the Columbia Broadcasting System, which owns the baseball team.

Hoffman is president of International Investors Group Service Ltd., which sells mutual funds. Wagner is chairman of the board.

CBS purchased the Yankees in 1964 for $14 million. There have been rumors that the network would be willing to sell the team.

"I spoke on the telephone yesterday to (Yankee President Michael) Burke," Hoffman, an American, said. "This is a very real offer."

Asked how much is company was offering for the Yankees, Hoffman said, "No comment."

Dropback 'Quarter' Is Still Vaid

NEW YORK (AP) — Has Hank Stram's moving pocket made the old style dropback quarterback obsolete.

Not by a long sight, in the opinion of Y.A. Tittle, the New York Giants' new part-time quarterback coach and a dropback passer from way back. Tittle, 43, led the Giants to division titles in 1961-62-63.

Stram had a quarterback who could move in Len Dawson, said Tittle. "If he had Sonny Jurgensen, Sonny would have dropped back. But Hank would have won the championship in Kansas City anyway."

"Football hasn't evolved as rapidly as all that. The Jets did win the championship two years ago with Joe Namath, didn't they? Namath and Sonny Jurgensen aren't going to have to retire just because they drop back. The spread isn't going to replace the old bread and butter system. After all, you don't want your passer to get hit too much."

Travelers Win Over Memphis

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A two-run homer by Ed Gagle helped Arkansas to a 6-2 Texas League baseball victory over Memphis in Little Rock Tuesday night.

Gagle drove in four runs, including the two from his fifth-inning home run, and kept the Travelers in first place in the league's Eastern Division.

Memphis committed four errors in the first three innings and Arkansas gained three unearned runs through the miscues.

Buzz Nitschke's double and a triple by Tommy Campbell accounted for one Memphis run. The other came when Billy Carthel and Kirk Brownhit snapped Seaver's personal four-game losing streak.

The victory went to pitcher Al Hrabosky, who has won five

Lemon Bows in as Pilot With Win

By TOM SALADINO

Bob Lemon's managerial debut at Kansas City was a neat and efficient success, nothing quite as explosive as Willie Horton's takeover at Detroit.

"It's great," said Lemon, the former star pitcher for the Cleveland Indians, following Tuesday night's 8-1 triumph over Washington as right-hander Dick Drago scattered seven hits and the Royals jumped to a 4-0 edge in the opening inning, helping snap a six-game losing streak.

Earlier in the day, Lemon, the Royals' pitching coach, had been named manager, replacing Charlie Metro, after Kansas City had lost eight of nine and were tied for fifth place, 16½ games back of West Division leader Minnesota.

Horton, the 27-year-old strongman of the Tigers, crashed three home runs, including a grand slam, and drove in seven runs to take over the American League RBI lead with 18 as Detroit ripped Milwaukee 8-3.

In other AL matchups, New York topped Minnesota 5-2, California stopped Baltimore 7-5 in 11 innings, Chicago beat Boston 4-2 and Oakland trimmed Cleveland 5-2.

In the National League, Cincinnati dropped Montreal 6-4, Philadelphia edged Atlanta 2-1, New York nipped Houston 2-1, Chicago drilled San Diego 7-3, St. Louis blanked Los Angeles 4-0 and Pittsburgh stopped San Francisco 5-1.

"It's the start of a new year," Drago said after evening his record at 4-4. "That's the first time I've been relaxed in a month and a half. This team has been tense all of the time. He (Metro) expected you to get every hitter to hit a popout or strikeout."

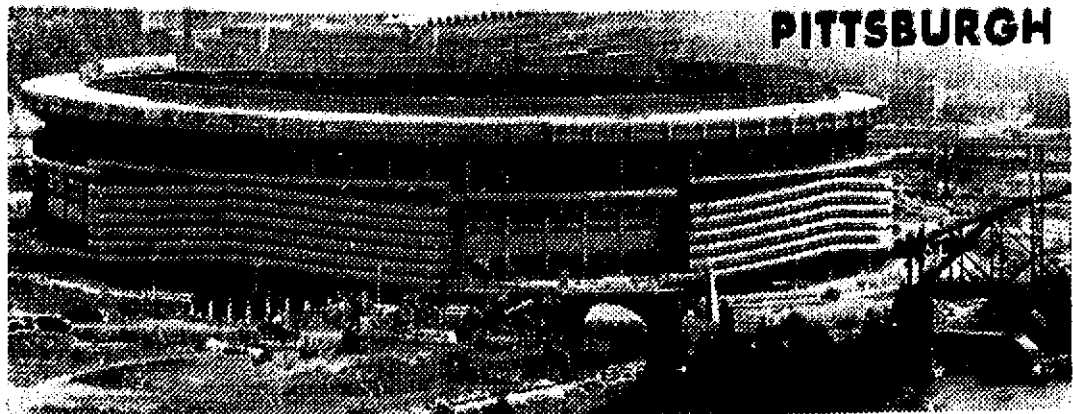

"It's nice to pitch out there without knowing you're going to catch it every time you get back to the clubhouse."

Drago got all the support he needed from Bob Oliver, who rapped three hits, a homer, triple and single. The four-run first inning burst was keyed by Amos Otis' two-run triple, followed by Oliver's triple and a sacrifice fly.

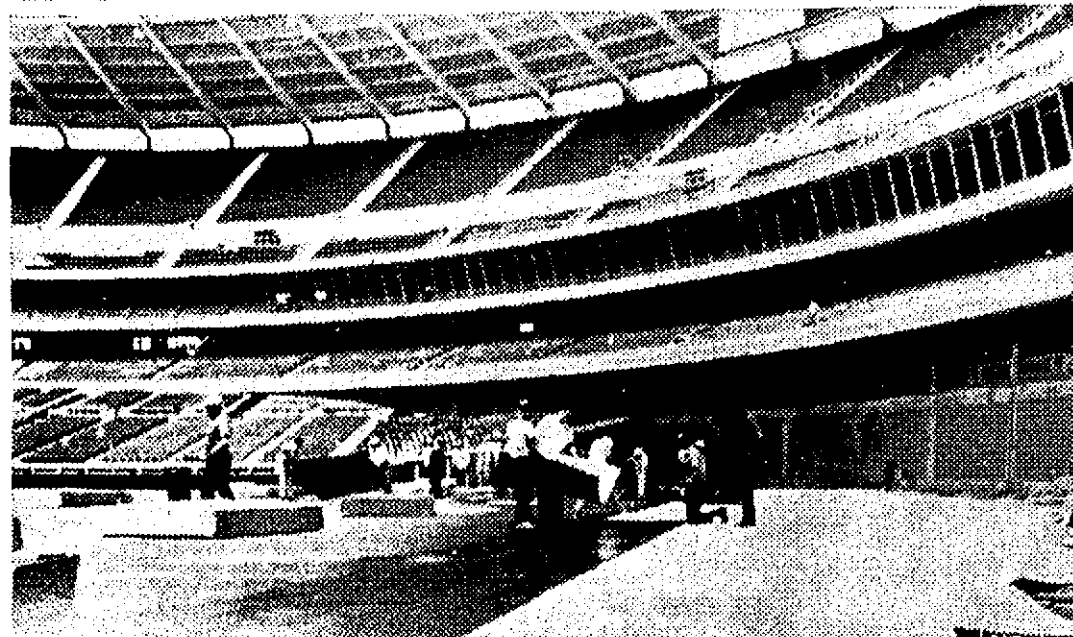

Horton ripped his grand slammer in the opening inning, wiping out a 2-0 Brewers lead, then connected for a two-run shot in the sixth and added his 10th roundtripper in the eighth, a solo blast, sending Milwaukee

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The late Judy Garland knew emotional torment, but her daughter Liza Minnelli remains calm amid show business pressure. There was last week in a recording studio, for example. Thirty musicians rehearsed for Liza's first television special while she listened from the podium to learn the arrangements. The orchestra couldn't get quite the slurred, comic effect the conductor wanted. The director called suggestions over the intercom. Tension was building. In tight blue jeans and pullover black sweater, Liza perched on a high stool, chomping gum. She jumped down, leaned her elbows on the conductor's music stand, then embraced him and kissed his cheek in midpassage. "Take five," Dick DeBenedictis told his players, and during the break he explained Liza's clowning: "I think she realizes there's so much pressure for everybody she tries to release it."

But Liza herself calls her have-fun quality "wafting." "Wafting is such a hard thing to describe. It means going along and havin' a good time and not really getting uptight about anything. "Because it's not worth it. You really don't have time. "I try to observe enough so that I realize this too will pass if I'm going through a bad situation."

The all-musical special, "Liza," airing June 29 on NBC.

will recall a half-century of show business. Liza's producer-director, Steve Binder, agreed that she takes things calmly, "but that's part of being professional. Panic I find in people of insecurity and unpreparedness."

"When she gives in a rehearsal it all comes out. A lot of performers say, 'If I save it till the performance I'll have more left.' That isn't true. The more you give, the better it gets."

Liza, 24, a slim 5-foot-5 with large blue eyes, thick lips and swooping nose, is a multitasking star. She won a Tony award on Broadway at 19, packs U.S. and European night clubs, and records now for Herb Alpert's A&M Records. She opens a two-week engagement in Los Angeles June 15.

Nominated for an Oscar for "The Sterile Cuckoo," she said it wasn't a big blow when she didn't win. "I was just pleased I was nominated."

What would she like to accomplish in, says, the next 10 years: "Oh, good God: I can't think that far ahead. I'd like to always be good at whatever I try."

Nicklaus, Palmer in Western Open

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, the two giants of professional golf, were late entrants in a bulky field and assumed the favorites' role for the $130,000 Western Open.

Both had indicated earlier that they would not compete, concentrating instead on preparations for the United States Open next week. But both changed their minds late last week and just beat the deadline for entries in this prestigious event, one of the oldest championships in the country.

And the powerful Nicklaus had a little something extra going for him, even though he missed the cut in the Kemper Open last week, the first time in over a year that he had failed to qualify for the final two rounds.

"I like Beverly and always seem to play well there," Nicklaus said. Nicklaus took the Western title in 1967, the last time the tournament was held at the Beverly Country Club, site of this year's championship. Nicklaus also won in 1968.

Billy Casper, the 1969 champion, withdrew because of a hand injury that had forced him out of last week's tournament. The Masters champion, one of three men who have won more than $1 million on the tour, also is a doubtful starter for the National Open. Embarrassed Lee Trevino also pulled out. He wasn't aware he had entered. "I'm embarrassed and I apologize," he told tournament officials by telephone. "But I never planned to play in the Western. I'd booked other commitments a long time ago."

He said he recalled signing an entry list "but that was for the Kemper Open, at least that's what I believed. If that was the Western entry, then how did I get into the Kemper. Maybe that $964 I won last Sunday isn't legal."

Also among the missing are U.S. Open champ Orville Moody and Dave Hill, winner of the HOPE (ARK) STAR, Printed by Offset

Memphis Open. Both are making preparations for the U.S. Open. South African Gary Player also is absent.

But there were so many commitments and exempt players that tournament officials had to expand the field from the usual 144 to 156.

"We had 150 exempt players that we had to take," said Tournament Supervisor George Walsh. "And we'd already started qualifying so we had to make some spots for the qualifiers. So we added six more."

The 72 hole test began Thursday on the 6,923 yard, par 71 Beverly Country Club course, a hilly layout that Nicklaus said serves as an excellent warm-up for the national championship.

Some of the top contenders for the $26,000 first prize include young Dick Lotz, who made last week's Kemper his second title of the year, Tom Weiskopf, Frank Beard, and Bob Lomas.

Other 1970 tournament winners in the field include Mike Hill, Dale Douglass, Gibby Gilbert, Tommy Aaron, Miller Barber, Homero Blancas, Pete Brown and Ron Cerrudo.

Also on hand are British Open champ Tony Jacklin, Bruce Crampton, PGA title-holder Ray Floyd, Bert Greene and Lou Graham.

New Law for Women Workers

By JANET STAIHAAR
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department has issued guidelines designed to prohibit discrimination against women on jobs under federal contract, a move described by a female spokesman as "a must appropriate milestone of women's progress."

Elizabeth Dincan Coontz, director of the Labor Department's women's bureau, made the remark Tuesday while announcing the guidelines at the White House.

The rules ban sexual bias in jobs, wages, hours, seniority and retirement. They result from a presidential task force review of women's rights and responsibilities submitted to the Nixon administration six months ago.

At the same time, the American Association of University Women Tuesday released a study in which 84 per cent of the women and 77 per cent of the men who responded to a questionnaire said that women were discriminated against in the business world.

The questionnaire was published in the AAUW's journal last January. Of the organization's 170,000 members, about 7,000—including nearly 3,000 men—responded to the opinion-

Olin Drops Manufacture of DDT

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The Agriculture Division of Olin Corp. said today it was discontinuing production of the pesticide DDT, effective June 30. V. H. Hartmann, vice president, Without specific guidelines to go by, Mrs. Koontz said, there was a gray area and confusion about sex discrimination in such jobs.

She said the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, which investigates women's right on jobs, has a backlog of some 600 complaints of sex discrimination.

A presidential directive against sex discrimination on government work contracts has been on the books since 1965. But not until now have explicit guidelines been set publicly.

The guidelines prohibit advertising in newspaper columns headed male or female unless sex is a legitimate occupational qualification.

They prohibit any distinction between married or unmarried persons and the denying of employment to women with young children unless the same policy exists for men.

Seniority based solely on sex also is banned, as are retirement requirements for women that differ from those for males.

dent in charge of production, said the corporation had to extend production until the end of the month to meet current contract commitments.

The production halt affects Olin's plant leased from the federal government at Redstone Arsenal near Huntsville, Ala. This is Olin's only DDT operation.

The announcement of the production halt came after conservation organizations filed suit last Friday in U.S. District Court in Washington asking that Olin be enjoined from discharging wastes leading into the Wheeler National Wildlife Refuge in Alabama.

A company spokesman said the decision to halt production at the plant was reached by Olin May 12 but could not be announced until negotiations were completed with the government on the plant shutdown. Olin said these were completed last Friday.

"Our policy in all of our operations is to conform not only with present environmental standards but with those we believe will be in effect in 1974," said Gordon Grand, president and chief executive officer. "Production of DDT at this plant was inconsistent with this policy."

Olin said that according to recent tests, the Huntsville plant was operating well within government standards on DDT production.

"THANKS FOR THE LIFT." Thousands of reindeer make their way toward grazing grounds at Troms, Norway, after being transferred across the fjord by the Norwegian navy. Hitherto, Lapps have had to transfer their herds from winter to summer grazing land by going around the fjord or by letting the animals swim across the water—a long and difficult job in which many reindeer were lost. This year, however, the navy helped out with a landing craft which will be used to ferry nearly 6,500 animals.

Early Report Asked on Compliance

Hempstead county farmers who are taking part in the feed grain, wheat and cotton programs are being reminded that early compliance and early certification will mean early payments this year.

H. B. Gilbert, Chairman of the Hempstead County Agricultural Stabilization (ASC) Committee, said that while farmers should certify compliance as soon as possible, they also must understand that acreage certifications are not to be made until they are in compliance with all program regulations.

When a participant in a 1970 farm program certifies compliance, he certifies accurately to acreages in the program crops and to diverted acreage. He also certifies that he has complied with conserving base provisions, with regulations that apply if he has an interest in more than one farm, that the diverted acres on his farm are devoted to an approved conserving use, and that all other program requirements have been met.

As soon as a program participant certifies, the County ASCS Office begins processing papers for his full payment for 1970 program participation. Payments to producers will begin soon after July 1 and are expected to be completed by the end of August—the earliest date ever set for completion of program payments.

After a farm has been certified to be in compliance with farm programs, it may be checked at any time to determine if any errors were made in certification. If errors are found, the producer will be determined to have not fully complied and may lose some or all of his farm program payments.

Mr. Gilbert said the County ASCS office has received instructions to keep up to date on farm control checks. A substantial number of farms in the county will be selected at random for these checks. Also, every farm in which an ASC Official has an interest will be checked. "Generally, the percentage of errors found is quite small and usually the

Rare Earth Pebbles May Have Had Origin on Moon, Is Belief

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Tektites, mysterious black and green pebbles found in only four isolated areas of the earth, may be of lunar origin, a study of Apollo 12 moon rock indicates.

Dr. John A. O'Keefe of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said glass found in a lemon-size moon rock appeared to be tektite glass.

"Its (the moon sample) constitution answers the arguments given by proponents of the terrestrial origin of tektites," O'Keefe said in the current issue of Science magazine. "There appears to be no sound reason not to say that tektites come from the moon."

The rock in question was part of a lunar rock sample brought back in November by the Apollo 12 crew and believed to be some 4.6 billion years old. Scientists at the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston have described it as "clearly the oldest rock yet found on the moon, and older than any rock found on earth."

Tektites are black or green glass pebbles found in small quantities in Bohemia and Moravia, sections of Czechoslovakia, the East Indies and Australia.

Usually the pebble's surface is pitted or sometimes grooved with winding marks. A few have ring marks like those seen on spacecraft re-entry heat shields.

O'Keefe said he compared the Apollo 12 rock with two earth tektites and some 5,000 ordinary rocks produced by fusion in heating.

"The Apollo 12 rock has the distinctive chemical hallmarks of a tektite, including enrichment in potassium and a puzzling mixture of the characteristics of the basic rocks and the acidic rocks like granite," he said.

Earlier theories held tektites were sort of earth rocks, such as sandstone or shale, fashioned result of carelessness or misunderstanding. We hope this year to find fewer certification mistakes than ever before," the ASC Committee Chairman said.

Mississippi Declines to Aid Probe

By JAMES SAGGUS
Associated Press Writer
JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. John Bell Williams says Mississippi has declined to aid a Justice Department probe of the Jackson State College shootings, an investigation he regards as one-sided.

Confirming Tuesday a rift between state and federal investigators, Williams said it was caused by an FBI failure to cooperate in the state's investigation of the campus confrontation with police in which two young Negroes were shot to death.

In Washington earlier, Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard asserted Mississippi had refused to turn over weapons used in the May 15 shooting or to make officers involved available for questioning.

Williams, in a statement read to newsmen in his office, said Leonard "is absolutely correct when he says that the Mississippi Highway Patrol has not turned over its weapons to the FBI. He is correct when he says that the highway patrolmen have not been interviewed by the FBI."

The governor added: "There is no obligation on the part of the state of Mississippi, legally, morally or otherwise, to furnish hooks, lines, poles, bait, water and fish for Mr. Leonard's fishing expeditions."

Williams summoned newsmen to his office to read the statement and refused to elaborate on it.

He said the Jackson State violence was local in nature "and subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of local law enforcement officers; yet Mr. Leonard's own FBI had representatives on the Jackson State campus during those riots."

"Mr. Leonard has refused to submit any of his people to our Mississippi investigating authorities for interview. It's time he learned that cooperation is a two way street."

The governor, in a television report last week, said highway patrolmen fired on students in self-defense following sniper fire from a girls' dormitory.

Leonard said there was "insufficient evidence to establish the presence of a sniper."

Leonard indicated a grand jury might be called to subpoena evidence.

Jackson State College resumed classes Tuesday for the first time since the violence erupted.

Standoff Between Korea, U.S.

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — The United States and North Korea refused to back down today from their conflicting accounts of last Friday's gunboat encounter in the Yellow Sea.

U.S. Army Maj. Gen. James H. Skeldon repeated South Korea's claim that North Korean forces attacked a lightly armed South Korean vessel south of the demilitarized zone, towed it into North Korean waters, and is now "illegally detaining" it and its 20 crewmen.

South Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Choon-sun insisted that the vessel was a heavily armed spy ship dispatched by the United States and that the North Koreans sank it north of the DMZ.

Unknown Is Nominated by APA

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer
The American Party of Arkansas has nominated for Congress a man who works in Missouri and lives in Illinois. Just who is James L. Dauer, the third-party nominee to oppose Rep. Bill Alexander of Arkansas' 1st Congressional District?

He is a native of McBride, Mo., now living in Belleville, Ill., across the Mississippi River from St. Louis, where he works as a civilian employee of the Army Aviation Assistance Command.

Dauer, 48, also owns an 80-acre farm in Randolph County, a fact that he says helps qualify him as a resident of Arkansas eligible to run in the state for political office.

Reached by telephone at Belleville Tuesday, Dauer said in an interview that he bought the farm in 1954 or 1955 as a home to retire to and had established himself as a tax-paying, voting resident of the state although he has stayed at the farm only on vacations and weekends.

He said he had researched the law carefully to verify his eligibility to run in Arkansas.

Dale Enoch, an aide to Alexander, said the Eastern Arkansas Democrat was not perturbed about whether Dauer is eligible.

"I asked him (Alexander) what he thought and he said, 'It's a free country — if he wants to run, let him run,'" Enoch said.

Enoch said Alexander's Washington office had received several calls inquiring about Dauer.

Dauer is not generally known in the Arkansas American party.

When he was nominated Saturday night at the party's convention in Little Rock, convention Chairman Asa C. Douglas of Fort Smith was not familiar with his name.

Dauer said Tuesday he would retire June 30 after 26½ years as an employee of the federal government in jobs that have taken him to several places in the United States, but not to Arkansas. He said, however, that while he was in the Army during World War II he spent a month or so at Ft. Chaffee near Fort Smith.

He said he had paid his $1,500 filing fee and probably would complete his filing with Secretary of State Kelly Bryant Monday.

He said the Hatch Act would prohibit him from doing any campaigning until his retirement. Dauer said he would have adequate finances for the campaign.

He has carefully checked Alexander, Dauer said.

"The last man as good as him was nailed to the cross," Dauer said. "Then checked his voting record — on controversial bills he makes himself scarce."

Dauer is an aircraft equipment specialist who specializes in provisioning aircraft supplies at AVCOM. He has worked for AVCOM since 1954.

He said he had been thinking about running for Congress for a year because he had been unable to persuade members of the U.S. House and Senate to cut "fantastic waste" from Defense Department spending.

He said the Defense Department was a "glorified" Works Progress Administration that has "drained the treasury of the United States and jeopardized our national security by complete and total incompetence."

He said he already had proved that $1 million a day was being wasted — and Dauer said this was a conservative figure — because of inefficiency and high administrative costs.

"We're spending millions to save a few dollars," he said. "One (federal) office creates another office, which creates another office, which creates another office, on down the line. The solution is that if it costs more to support an item than the item is worth, don't support it."

Dauer, who claims Southern ancestry from Kentucky, said he was a Republican who supported George Wallace for president in 1968. He also said he voted for Charles T. Bernard of Earle, a Republican, against Sen. J. W. Fulbright in the 1968

Education Board Cites Low Fund

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Board of Education adopted a statement Monday saying it considers its cushion fund unsafe because it will amount to little more than $500,000.

The board instructed the state Education Department staff to tell all state agencies and local school boards that the state board will be able to guarantee only the $500,000 as a cushion for the 1970-71 budget.

A. W. Ford, state education commissioner, said he believed the fund would be sufficient to meet educational needs unless there is a sharp decline in state revenues.

Joe Hudson, associate commissioner for finance, said the $500,000 gives "some protection, but if there is a major decline (in the economy) this money wouldn't take care of it."

He termed the small-sized cushion a "gamble."

The "incline in revenue," or the rate of state income, doesn't look as good this year as it has previously, Hudson said.

"We do have some new taxes that have been passed — not a lot — but they do add to the income and we do have a session of the legislature (in January) which will be considering this problem," Hudson said.

The board heard testimony from Conway Wilson, 58, former director of Crowley's Ridge Vocational - Technical School at Forrest City. Two former employees at the school also testified. No action was taken.

Wilson was relieved of his duties at the school March 9 after an audit showed a $1,700 deficit in cash receipts and deposits. A later audit reduced the deficit to about $1,200.

"If they'd make another audit, I bet there wouldn't be any deficit," Wilson said.

The board also awarded contracts for work on the Hot Springs Rehabilitation Center. Kaufman Electric Co. of Hot Springs submitted the base bid of $48,445 for electrical alterations and remodeling work and Floyd Sutton of Hot Springs had a low bid of $84,807 for renovation and repair of the center's main building.

Rabie Rhodes of Harrison was re-elected board chairman. Dr. John Cole of Malvern was re-elected vice chairman.

Starch in Potatoes
Some potatoes contain more than 90 per cent starch by dry weight but, because of the high water content, the actual starch content is 15 to 30 per cent, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Arkansas senatorial race and "would rather not say" who received his vote in the governor's race.

Dauer, married 28 years to a native of Fredericktown, Mo., and who has two children, one 25 years old and the other 20, said he ran onto the Randolph County farm about 11 miles west of Pocahontas and six miles north of Imboden while looking for a place to live when he retired.

"The people in that area are some of the finest and most conscientious you'll find in the world," he said.

Cambodia's Troops Push Back Enemy

By JOHN T. WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian troops pushed back enemy forces around Siem Reap and reopened the airport to replenish their dwindling supply of food and ammunition, the Cambodian Command reported today.

A military spokesman said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces were still around Siem Reap and hit the provincial capital 185 miles northwest of Phnom Penh with harassing fire Tuesday night. But the opening of the airport between the city and the ruins of Angkor Wat was viewed here as a major achievement for the government.

The spokesman said the enemy force that attacked Siem Reap included Laotians who probably were impressed into service as porters. He added they may have been troops of the Communist Pathet Lao movement.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces also continued their harassment of Kompong Thom, another provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh on the highway to Siem Reap and Angkor. But the heavy pressure on Kompong Thom last week appeared to have eased for the moment.

The spokesman also reported a heavy Viet Cong attack before dawn today in southern Cambodia, on a military post near Kompong Som, the country's chief port formerly known as Sihanoukville. But the garrison apparently held on.

Thailand's military chief of staff, Air Marshal Dawee Chulapanya, returned to Bangkok after a one-day visit to South Vietnamese leaders in Saigon. He reportedly made the trip to discuss transfer of part of the 12,000 Thai troops in South Vietnam to the Siem Reap area, which is 80 miles east of the Thai border.

Meanwhile, Dawee's deputy, Lt. Gen. Kriengsak Chamand, and a team from the Thai air force were in Phnom Penh discussing Thai air operations in support of Cambodian ground operations. Diplomats in Phnom Penh said Thai pilots and planes soon would join South Vietnamese air units in helping out the hard-pressed Cambodian air force, which has only 30 small bombers.

American and South Vietnamese forces reported generally light contact with enemy units in Vietnam and Cambodia but uncovered another 100 tons of weapons and munitions in border areas of Cambodia.

In a series of skirmishes while searching out the North Vietnamese caches, U.S. troops reported killing seven of the enemy while suffering no casualties.

Six Americans were reported killed in South Vietnam and 41 wounded, most of them in actions in the northern part of the country. The allied commands said 59 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed by U.S. and South Vietnamese troops.

Two American helicopters, a medical evacuation craft marked with a Red Cross and a light observation chopper were shot down during a fight between troops of the 173rd Airborne Brigade and an enemy force near Phu Cat. One American was killed and two wounded in the helicopter crashes, while one was killed and one wounded in the ground fighting.

The U.S. Command also reported the loss of its fourth fighter-bomber in a week, an Air Force F4 Phantom which was hit by enemy fire and crashed while supporting Laotian forces in the southern panhandle of Laos. The command said one of the two crewmen was rescued and the other was missing.

In Saigon, informed sources said the South Vietnamese government plans to free 62 North Vietnamese prisoners of war and 24 North Vietnamese fishermen who strayed into South Vietnamese waters. The sources said the release will take place July 4 near the demilitarized zone, and the 86 persons will be put aboard small boats provided by the Saigon government.

Cyclamate Ban May Be Eased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is holding off plans to seek an easing of the strict law banning such cancer-linked food additives as cyclamates.

Legislative aides in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare have mapped plans designed to ease the ban without adverse public opinion.

But sources said Tuesday that acting HEW Secretary John G. Veneman put a hold on the plans after vigorous complaints from Food and Drug Commissioner Charles C. Edwards.

Veneman is acting HEW chief until the Senate confirms Elliot L. Richardson as replacement for former Secretary Robert H. Finch, who opposes the additive ban. Finch went to the White House staff last Saturday.

When Finch was forced last October to ban the artificial sweetener cyclamate he complained that the law was too strict because it forced action when any additive was found to cause cancer when fed to animals in any amount. Cyclamates were linked to bladder cancer in rats.

Some argue for retaining the law, known as the Delaney amendment after its sponsor, Rep. James L. Delaney, D-N.Y.

But Creed Black, assistant HEW secretary for legislation, said in a memo Monday that it should be altered because the secretary must now outlaw cancer-linked substances even when evidence comes from tests on "inappropriate animals under inappropriate conditions."

The memo, a copy of which was obtained by The Associated Press, went on to propose eliminating the compulsory ban in favor of ceilings—or tolerance levels—for additives linked not only to cancer, but to birth defects, genetic mutations or other irreversible damage.

"The approach is designed to anticipate and counteract criticism that the department is merely trying to weaken existing safeguards against harmful substances in foods," Black's memo said.

He conceded that present law was entirely satisfactory in setting tolerance levels for substances linked to disorders other than cancer.

Magic Grass Developed by Israel

By FREDERICK ROSENFELD
EILAT, Israel (AP) — A wonder grass with multiple uses and a promising commercial future has been developed in Israel's Negev Desert.

Its growers claim it can reduce water pollution, cheaply substitute for wood pulp in the production of high-quality paper and do many more things.

Dr. Hugo Boyko, who died in May, developed the reed-like vegetation called juncus-esparto, using desert sand and plentiful underground saline water.

Just before his death Boyko said tests in Scottish and English paper mills had yielded excellent results.

The mills thought so much of its qualities that they applied for the complete harvest once it reaches an economically profitable level of 10,000 tons annually, Boyko said. He indicated that Israeli production within the next few years will be much higher.

"I'm not trying to tell you that the juncus is going to completely replace wood pulp for papermaking," he said. "But the market for high quality paper is so great that we will have absolutely no trouble selling our entire production no matter how large it becomes—and we shall be able to cover millions of desert acres now empty and unused."

Boyko said the grass can purify urban or industrial waste water by breaking down noxious compounds or destroying harmful micro-organisms.

"Water filtered through the grass is clean enough to drink," the scientist asserted.

The grass has found other uses in pharmaceutical laboratories, as a dairy fodder, in the manufacture of woven mats, baskets and wicker furniture, in the production of plastic sheets and as an insulating material.

McClerkin Opens Books on Finances

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Speaker Hayes McClerkin of the Arkansas House, a Democratic candidate for governor, called a news conference today to tell reporters of the money he had received from the state for his services in the legislature and to list his business interests.

McClarkin said all voters had a right to know about the information and added, "I hope that all candidates will join me in making similar information available for all to see."

McClarkin said that since his election to the House in 1960, he had drawn a total of $24,349, which he said represented his salary as a state representative per diem for expenses for regular and special sessions and compensation received as a member of the Legislative Council and the Joint Audit committees.

McClarkin also said the sum included $1,920 paid to pages from the House contingency appropriation for the 1967 and 1969 sessions.

"None of these pages, I might add, have been members of my immediate family," McClarkin said.

In 1968, Marion H. Crank, the Democratic nominee for governor, and Bill Wells, the nominee for lieutenant governor, were criticized because members of their families were on the state payroll, while Crank and Wells served in the legislature.

Auto Wage Conference in Mid-July

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union, led by a new president, has made mid-July dates with the Big Three automakers to open 1970 contract negotiations complicated by a business slump in the industry.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock is expected to continue a tradition established by his predecessor, the late Walter P. Reuther, by attending the formal opening of the talks with General Motors on July 15, Ford on July 16 and Chrysler on July 17.

Reuther died May 9 in a plane crash in northern Michigan and Woodcock was chosen to succeed him by the UAW International Executive Board May 22.

A work stoppage could be disastrous to the automakers in a year when sales and profit are nosediving.

Additional Filings by Candidates

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Sen. Max Howell of Little Rock filed Tuesday for re-election to Position 1 in District 18, which includes Pulaski and Lonoke counties.

Howell is 54.

Two Republicans filed for the Arkansas House. They were Kenneth Adair, 65, of Hot Springs, a Negro, who filed for the Pos. 1, District 20 seat held by Rep. Ray S. Smith of Hot Springs and George Vaughn, 37, of Hot Springs, filed for the Position 3 seat held by Ode Maddox of Oden.

The district includes Garland and Montgomery counties.

Roger Logan Jr., 25, of Harrison filed as a Democratic candidate for state representative in District 4, which is in Boone County. The incumbent is Joe Hamilton of Harrison, who accompanied Logan to the secretary of state's office and does not plan to seek re-election.

Rep. Jim Shaver, 42, of Wynne filed as a Democratic candidate for re-election in District 26, which is Cross County.

George B. Pugh, 46, of Hamburg filed as a Democratic candidate for the state Senate seat held by Richard Earl Griffin of Crossett, who is running for attorney general. Pugh seeks election in District 19, which includes Ashley, Cleveland, Calhoun and Bradley.

State Sen. David G. Partain, 50, of Van Buren filed for election as circuit judge in the 15th Judicial District, which includes Crawford, Logan and Franklin counties.

John W. Bailey, 52, of Little Rock filed for the new circuit judgeship in the 4th Division of the 6th District, which includes Pulaski and Perry counties.

New Change Proposed for Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bipartisan House group today introduced a bill which would replace the current draft law with a system allowing young men to choose between military and civilian service.

The measure would require all men to register at 17, receive counseling and at 18 make one of three choices:

—Volunteer for military service.

—Volunteer for civilian service with a qualified agency for a period of time equivalent to two years in the armed forces.

—Take their chances on being drafted under a lottery system.

Rep. Jonathan B. Bingham, D-N.Y., is principal sponsor of the bill.

Under the plan, suitable civilian service agencies would include but not be limited to state, federal and local agencies; public, private and parochial schools; nonprofit hospitals; law enforcement agencies; penal and probation systems and noncommercial organizations, such as the Red Cross, whose principal purpose is social service.

Red Party Split, China vs. Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of card-carrying Communists over the world is increasing at the same time more local parties are splitting into pro-Moscow and pro-Peking factions, according to the State Department.

The party in 23 nations was divided over the Sino-Soviet dispute at the end of 1969, the department survey reports. By comparison, only 15 parties were split in 1966 and 21 in 1968.

The trend seems to confirm the bitter complaint by Pravda, the official Soviet party organ, that Peking's accusations against Moscow are "divisive."

At the same time, the survey revealed, total membership of all Communist parties was estimated at about 45.9 million, an increase of 700,000 from 1968.

The survey also disclosed Communist parties hold effective control of 14 countries with an estimated 43.3 million party members at the end of last year. This comprises 94.3 per cent of world membership, leaving only 2.6 million members for the "out of power" parties.

N. Atlantic Allies End Nuclear Meet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
VENICE (AP) — The United States and the seven other members of the Nuclear Planning Group of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization today ended a secret two-day meeting on how to use tactical nuclear weapons if they are ever needed to halt a Soviet attack.

U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird met with the defense ministers of West Germany, Britain, Canada, Italy, Holland, Turkey and Norway. The purpose was to work on plans ensuring that nuclear weapons would be used only as a last resort to halt aggression, and then as sparingly as possible. The ministers also want to make sure that there is time for reflection on both sides before nuclear arms are used.

Sharon Everett served as hostess for another discussion group. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Everett of Route 1, Fulton.

The girls were accompanied by Mrs. W. F. Clark, FHA sponsor, and were met in Arkadelphia by Mrs. Estelle Spearman, co-sponsor.

Debbie Owens served as a leader for one of the group sessions and was also one of the narrators for presenting the group ideas on stage for the entire assembly. Debbie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Owens of West Avenue A, Hope.

Reva Williams was a voting delegate and took part in the revision of the state bylaws. Reva is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Brown of 312 South Hamilton Street in Hope.

THE DOCTOR SAYS
If you have arthritis, aspirin is the best single remedy you can take unless you have a sensitivity to it or can't use it for some other reason. Before embarking on a course of self-treatment, however, you should have your doctor determine whether you really have arthritis and, if so, what type. He should also advise you about the dosage and about other elements in the total treatment.
Beside relieving pain, aspirin also reduces inflammation. This is especially important in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis. For this reason it is important for anyone with this type of arthritis to continue taking the prescribed dosage even after the pain subsides—otherwise the anti-inflammatory effect is lost. Don't change your dosage without consulting your doctor.

2nd Computer Typesetter Here; Wire Costs Rise

The second of The Star's new computerized Compu-graphic photo-typesetters was delivered to us late yesterday and will be put into service either this week or next by Joe Savio, the manufacturer's installer.

The first of the new machines was put on the production line last week and is now composing 90 per cent of The Star's news text. There is still some mixing of old type from the strike-on Just-O-Writer machines, but this will end when the second new machine goes into service—after which the Just-O-Writers will be overhauled and sold. They served The Star four years, being the best available equipment when installed in June 1966—but they are giving "way in daily slugs to the computerized photo-setters, which have only four moving parts. The CompuGraphics expose sensitized paper to the alphabet, then the paper is developed photographically to produce galleys of type proof—which are pasted up in the page forms.

The Star will hold a series of Open Houses to demonstrate how this three-year-old invention works just as soon as the second machine is in place.

Newspaper management tries for the latest, most efficient production machines, then gets some bad news on other costs.

The other day we advised you the Federal Communications Commission was preparing to eliminate the preferential wire rates given newspapers, radio and TV stations. The official order has come through—boosting wire transmission costs 50 per cent, a stiff jolt for any industry.

This is an added cost that has nothing to do with currency inflation. It reflects a basic change in government's treatment of communication costs. Newspapers from colonial times were given preferential postal rates in recognition of the fact that they have to carry a large number of government announcements for the public benefit. Much of this preferential mail treatment has eroded away in recent years due to alarm over staggering postal deficits.

With the invention of wire service the same preferential treatment was given the press, and, later, radio and TV, in return for unreimbursed public service.

That, too, is now passing, and sooner or later the added cost will have to be levied against all the people by the communication industry.

Government may have deemed the current action necessary, but its timing makes you realize that sometimes a change in national policy merely amounts to a tax increase deviously arrived at.

Funds Intact Says Head of SCA

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—Dr. Silas D. Snow, president of State College of Arkansas, said Tuesday that he expected that the school would finish the fiscal year with sufficient money.

He commented after a report came to light with an indication that the college would finish the year about $113,741 in the red.

The report, prepared in April, was by the staff of the Legislative Joint Auditing Committee. The report said that SCA's accounting system was fragmentary and without internal controls.

"Nothing is out of order," Snow said Tuesday. "We expect to finish the current fiscal year in the black."

Snow also said he had received no indication of disaffection, who conducted a special audit in connection with federal funds spent at SCA.

Negotiations on future federal programs have proceeded satisfactorily and no federally financed program at the college has been curtailed, Snow said.

Evil Design on Campus, Says Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Harvard President Nathan S. Pusey says the nation's campuses are being disrupted by student and faculty extremists bent on destroying the existing higher educational system.

Addressing seniors at the university's annual baccalaureate ceremonies Tuesday, Pusey said those he cited had revived the 1950 methods of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, rousing "hate and anger for their own purposes."

"Now, less than 20 years later, our campuses are experiencing a not dissimilar period of torment whiplashed as they are by a resurgence of his hateful technique," declared Pusey, who was himself a target of McCarthy in 1953.

He said the campus unrest was stirred by "extremist groups of the New Left made up of students and—I am sorry to acknowledge—also of some faculty who for reasons not quite clear to me would like to see our colleges and universities defiled, degraded, maligned and even shut down."

Pusey added: "Always they insinuate, distort, accuse, their aim being not to identify and correct real abuses, but always rather by crying alarm intentionally to arouse and inflame passions in order to build support for 'non-negotiable demands,' and, by this means, to enlarge their following and enhance their power."

Pusey, who is retiring next June, recalled coming to Harvard in 1953 after having served as president of Lawrence College in McCarthy's hometown of Appleton, Wis., where he has opposed the Republican senator's successful re-election bid in 1952.

"As long as I remained in Appleton he had taken no public notice of me," Pusey said, "but when I came into the light of the Harvard presidency I was quickly numbered among his targets."

Labeling McCarthy a "symbol of chicanery, deceit... and diabolical evil," Pusey said the late senator used the "big lie" technique of Adolf Hitler, and that the current extremist groups follow the same course.

Pusey concluded that some of

N.Y. Police Hq's. Is Bombed

NEW YORK (AP)—Two minutes after a telephoned warning, a dynamite time bomb exploded in a men's room of city police headquarters Tuesday night, smashing doors, windows and walls and slightly injuring eight people.

In the mail today, The Associated Press received a hand-printed communication signed "Weatherman," which claimed that radical student faction planted the bomb because "the pigs in this country are our enemies."

Tuesday night's was the latest in a series of blasts which have caused four deaths and rocked skyscrapers, army centers and department stores in New York.

Police said the new blast was caused by 15 sticks of dynamite, wired to a timing device. It could have been placed in the men's room locker as much as 12 hours before it went off at 6:45 p.m., they said.

Police said they did not know how the bomb was taken into the building. Security measures to keep unauthorized persons out of the building were instituted several years ago after a precinct stationhouse was bombed and attempts were made to bomb several others.

The explosion made rubble of a large area of the second floor of the old five-story, fortress-like building in downtown Manhattan, but caused no structural damage. Most of the 150 people at work in the building were in a fourth-floor communications center, which was not damaged.

Two minutes before the blast, a man phoned police, saying a bomb was set to go off in the building, but not where or when.

provincial towns are in enemy hands, the bridges blown, and the company has only a handful of trucks left to supply local dealers.

Since it arrived in Cambodia in 1963, two years ahead of rival Coca-Cola, Pepsi has had fantastic success, moving rapidly ahead of orange drink and beer as the nation's No. 1 thirst quencher. Last year Cambodians knocked back 26 million bottles of Pepsi. The betelnut, chewing older set in particular seems to like its effervescence, but it also is popular, between pipes, with the turned-on younger generation in the opium parlors, legal in Cambodia.

At the outset of the war two months ago, plant manager Chung Kimhor had a fleet of 110 red, white and blue heavy-duty Dodge and Fargo trucks. The army commandeered 40 to haul troops and ammunition to the front. Then 40 more fell hors de combat to Viet Cong rockets and hard-tooling Cambodian army drivers.

Plant manager Kimhor concedes that the tactical situation has his drivers a bit uptight about making the run into the provinces even if the roads weren't cut or the bridges blown. Besides, he has no desire to risk the rest of his fleet, down to 23 trucks with the army knocking at the gates for more.

In addition the army has just tripled its order for Pepsi-Cola. After a hot day of battling the Cong, the boys like a frosty bottle with their steaming rice

'Candlelight Killer' Is Captured

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—A young Californian sought by police as the ritualistic slayer who calls himself "The Candlelight Killer" was captured near here today after allegedly robbing a motel and taking the owner's wife as hostage.

Arrested after a bullet-punctuated, 15-mile chase was Robert Liberty, 23, blamed by police for three murders—including one which landed him in a mental hospital for three years. Taken into custody with him were a 17-year-old unidentified male and Kendall Bierly, 24, who said she was from California.

Police said three persons staying at the motel held up an unidentified woman night manager, taking $100 and a hostage.

The car was spotted by police, and detective Bernie Carter gave chase. Officers said the occupants apparently knew Carter was a detective and showed that they were holding a gun to the hostage's head.

The chase continued at high speed. Six shots reportedly were fired at Carter's unmarked auto and he fired three shots into the side of the pursued vehicle when he drove alongside.

The car pulled to the side of the road and the three occupants surrendered, officers said. The hostage was unhurt.

Liberty was charged with murder and flight to avoid prosecution after his roommate, Thomas Astronia, 25, was found dead March 12 south of Los Angeles in Orange County.

Police said Liberty kidnapped a 17-year-old motorist in Long Beach last Saturday and forced him to drive to Westminster, Calif., where Liberty robbed his own mother of $45 at gunpoint in her home, saying she owed him the money.

California authorities said the young motorist was forced to drive to San Diego, where Robert Irion, 52, was killed. In Irion's apartment was the message scrawled in pencil across a closet door: "The Candlelight Killer strikes again." Two candles were burning beside the body when officers arrived.

City Will Receive Bids on June 16

The City Board of Directors at its regular meeting Tuesday night reviewed plans for accepting bids at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 16, on four separate contracts which will complete work on the current water, roads, and sewer project on which the city has received a $453,000 federal grant. The grant will be matched by $302,000 from the utility operating funds.

Work on Contract No. 1 of this project is underway and about 70 per cent complete. This contract covered a 12 inch water main to the north industrial site, which is now complete, and a 12-inch line to the eastern city limits along Highway 67. Work is underway on this line and the contractor plans to complete it during the first week in July.

Balance of the project will extend the 12-inch line north to Oakhaven and west to the airport to serve industrial development already underway in this area, as well as a poultry processing plant which is being planned. Four wells are planned in the project, this will more than double the city's present water supply. The wells will be 1,200 feet deep, tapping the torkio sands, a large underground water bearing formation. Water from this source has never been developed in this area because of the depth and expense of well drilling; however, wells from this sand will produce almost twice as much water as the Nacatoch formation which is now furnishing the city water supply from wells that are about 600 feet deep.

The directors studied appraisal reports on 132 acres of land on the airport property on which the Fleisher-Seeger Construction Company of St. Louis, Missouri has asked for a 12 months option. They are asking for the option as a possible location for a manufacturing concern whose name they will not divulge until all arrangements have been made and the company announces its decision. This company has visited with the Industrial Foundation on two occasions during the past year and the officers of the Foundation think Hope has a good chance of getting the industry. The land was appraised at $350 an acre, and if details of the option can be worked out, that will be the price. The City has filed a request with the Federal Aviation Administration for permission to grant the option.

Also discussed was the program of the street work now underway, which includes some work in the industrial area around Bruner Ivory Handle Company and Cox Bros. Machine Shop, the paving of North Bell and Berry Street, a section of South Edgewood and Dadds Avenue in the Dadds Addition. Property owners are participating in the cost of the work on this project.

The Street Department has recently resurfaced East 13th, East 14th, and a part of West 16th. The street program for the summer includes resurfacing a number of other old blacktop streets. The Board directed that the City proceed with action to remove old dilapidated buildings which were on a list presented by the Citizens Advisory Committee. The Citizens Advisory Committee has been making a study of old unsightly buildings and property, and suggested that the city do whatever they could legally to clean up some of the neighborhood eyesores in the community.

Retired Air Force Pilot Builds River Boat for L. Hamilton

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—

The slow rhythmic beat of "chuga, chuga, shump" echoes throughout the timbers of the boat. Steam vents along side and the majestic paddle-wheels lazily turn over in the mid afternoon sun.

It all brings to mind a Mississippi Riverboat with the Kentucky Colonels holding mint juleps in one hand and a deck of dards in the other as it plays down a broad river. Suddenly the F sharp note of a blast of the whistle wakes you up.

You are in Hot Springs, on Lake Hamilton and the vessel is the WREN, piloted by retired Air Force Pilot Chris Sheppard. Chris spent more than two years making this craft at a cost of more than $10,000.

So far as is known the boat is the only full scale steam boat in the state that actually uses real steam for motive power.

Chris, with safety as well as beauty in mind, bought a totally new automatic boiler to nullify the danger of explosions that are common with steam if not properly used.

Fired by propane gas from a tank carried on board, the boiler automatically maintains the 105 pound of pressure that is fed to the two steam engines. The engines themselves came from a 120-ton wrecking crane

Paper Strike Hits British Election Eve

LONDON (AP)—With the British election only eight days away, a newspaper strike silenced some strong Conservative voices today. But the Tories set out to make campaign capital because Fleet Street's first all-paper walkout in 15 years came under a Labor government.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson interrupted his campaigning to meet Tuesday with representatives from Britain's nine national newspapers and the printers' union which is demanding a 25 per cent pay raise. The talk failed, and for the first time in history the paper shut down in the middle of an election campaign.

The Communist Morning Star, which is not a member of the Newspaper Publishers' Association, was the only paper on the London streets today.

The majority of the newspapers are backing the Conservatives, so the strike cut off one source on campaign harassment of the Laborites.

However, Conservative campaigners were certain to seize on the strike as fresh fuel for their charge that wage demands are out of control because of the considerable increases the government has allowed numerous categories of workers.

Representatives of the publishers and the printers are to meet with Wilson at No. 10 Downing Street again Thursday.

The strikers, ranging from janitors to printers, now earn $48 to $120 a week. The publishers offered a 5 per cent increase, saying the 25 per cent demanded by the union would cost $52.8 million a year and would kill off some newspapers already having a hard time with rising costs.

Nixon Grids for Mideast Showdown

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Nixon administration is putting together a program combining military supplies and political action to meet what it considers the growing danger of Soviet armed intervention on behalf of Egypt in the Arab-Israeli conflict.

The program—still to be decided on finally—is expected to include the sale of warplanes to Israel, but also intensified efforts to work out a formula with the Soviet Union for peace talks between Israel and the Arabs.

Consideration has been given to a new cease-fire call, limiting arms sales in the Mideast—and perhaps some forceful gesture of U.S. support for Israel.

One possibility would be a publicized visit to an Israeli airfield by U.S. jets.

Officials concede virtually all ideas for an American initiative have been turned down by Moscow or failed in some other way in the past. Nevertheless, they said if the crisis is to be controlled familiar devices will have to be tried again and again.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers told the House Foreign Affairs Committee Tuesday of one of the latest failures of U.S. policy.

He said it was decided in March to hold off on the Israeli request for planes "in the hope that it would set a pattern of restraint in the Middle East."

Yet, about a month after the decision was made, Soviet pilots began flying missions in Egypt's interior, covering such strategic points as Alexandria, Cairo and the Aswan Dam. In addition, increasing numbers of Soviet soldiers began manning antiaircraft missile bases.

In the face of this, Rogers said, the delay on the Israeli request is being reconsidered. "There will be a decision on this matter before long," he told the House committee, although he later ruled out any change before the weekend.

Another failure Rogers did not mention, since it involved private diplomatic exchanges, is the failure to get any assurances from Moscow that its pilots in Egypt are limited to interior defense missions.

U.S. and Soviet officials are scheduled to meet again Friday, but the future range of Soviet military activity in Egypt's defense is not expected to be clarified.

The Nixon administration fears that at some point Russian pilots will extend their operations into the combat zone covering the Suez Canal.

This would either mean Soviet-Israeli clashes and casualties or an Israeli backdown. Israeli leaders have said, however, they intend to defend the Suez front regardless of who fights on the other side.

U.S. officials believe the danger of Soviet involvement on the Suez front will grow considerably if the conflict drags on.

Thus, in spite of past setbacks, there appears to be a new determination on the part of officials here to press for peace negotiations.

Rogers touched on this administration policy theme in his talk with the House Committee, calling for compromises by both sides.

"The only hope for progress," he said, "is to convince both the Arabs and the Israelis that compromises are necessary."

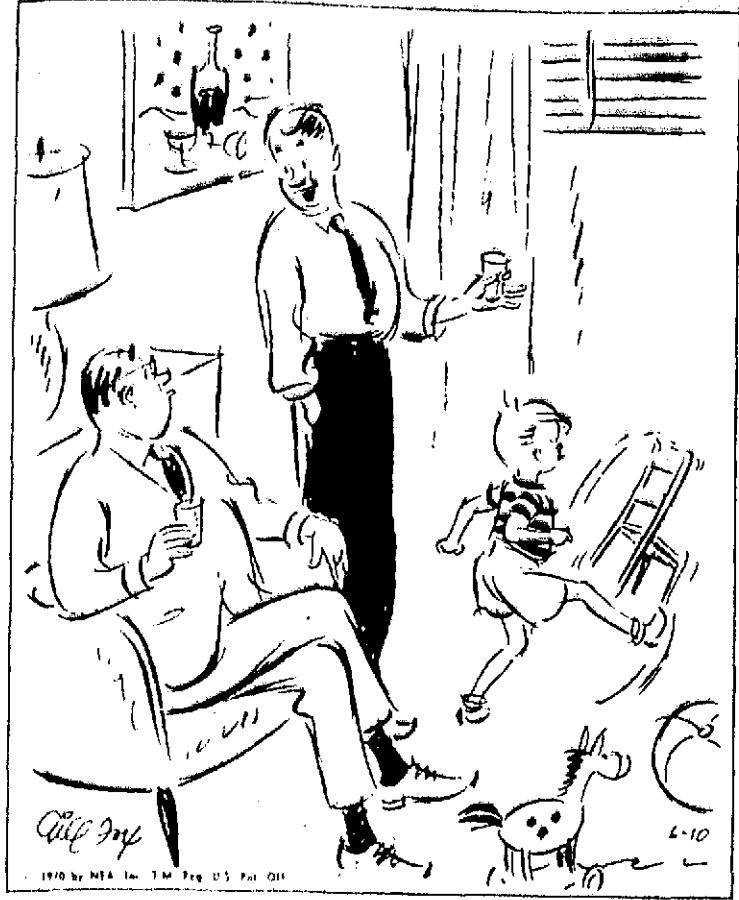

"The UAR (Egypt) should abandon its refusal to enter any kind of negotiations and its insistence on prior Israeli withdrawal to the pre-June 1967 lines (which were set by Israeli conquest of Arab territory)."

"Israel should make clear that it accepts the principle of withdrawal (from the conquered territory) as laid down in the November 1967 Security Council resolution, and that it will no longer insist on the formula of 'direct negotiations without preconditions.'"

Amended Welfare Plan Shown

By G. C. THELSEN JR.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon outlined today what he termed "significant extensions" of his welfare reform proposals but delayed their introduction in Congress until next year.

The main alterations to his ground-breaking family assistance plan involve new administration of the food stamp program and replacement of the present medicaid health insurance plan for the needy with a broader based, prepaid "family health insurance program for all poor families with children."

The Senate Finance Committee demanded May 1 that the administration rework its welfare reform measure because senators claimed it penalized some poor persons who worked.

The President said he would submit a reorganization plan next year to transfer the food stamp program from the Agriculture Department to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The shift is designed to tie food stamps more closely with family assistance.

Nixon said his new health plan for the poor "would provide a comprehensive package of health services, including both hospital and outpatient care."

The new plan was not spelled out, but is expected to be prepaid, comprehensive care plan similar to one proposed earlier as an option in the Medicare program.

The President for the moment has adopted a mixed bag of cautious short-term and potentially sweeping long-range alterations, officials said.

The key change would switch administration of food stamps from various state and local agencies to the family assistance network. Family assistance is designed to replace the federal-state aid to dependent children program.

In this way, the administration believes, food stamp eligibility requirements and benefits level can be meshed with family assistance.

Some senators contended benefits from welfare-related programs such as food stamps, public housing and medicaid would tend to destroy the work incentive and become in fact, a "work disincentive."

They cited a Chicago family of a mother and her three children.

If the mother earned $5,000 a year, they said, the various government benefits would bring the total to $7,123. If her earnings rose to $5,560, the total would drop to $6,109, they added.

This paradoxical decline was attributed to the discontinuance of all food and medical benefits after income passed a certain level.

The new proposal is designed to avoid such precipitous cut-offs, at least for food stamps. The stamps are purchased for less than face value and redeemed at stores for food.

The President will recommend separate legislation embodying similar principles for government subsidies involved in low rent public housing, the sources said.

The reforms for medicaid—the federal-state health assistance program for the needy—are reportedly more long range.

The President will also call for changes in existing welfare programs benefiting unemployed father, the sources said.

State and local governments will receive new assurances their welfare outlays will not rise under family assistance.

Additional federal costs for family assistance are reportedly about the same under the revised plan as under the original—an estimated $4.4 billion a year.

BARBS

With school out, there's no place like home—unfortunately.

Fellow across the desk is groaning about the rider which increases his company insurance. Doesn't know whether to keep it a secret, or tell his wife and hire a food-taster.

Bored meetings are what the company brass hold during golf season.

used by the railroad for many years. The two engines that turn the massive paddlewheel can deliver 25 horsepower to the paddle and, with the 200 gallon propane tank, can operate 46 hours at 5-6 knots.

The craft scales out at a little more than 25 tons but the 48-foot craft has good steering and is not as sluggish as one would think.

More than 20 people can be carried safely on board with plenty of room to spare for cotton bales.

Berthing is the only problem the former Gurdon native has with his little vessel. He has to come in to his dock sideways so Chris goes modern with a 70 horsepower outboard motor to help maneuver into the dock.

The name Wren came about this way. During the building of the superstructure for the boat, a nest of wrens had settled in the boat's timber and all work was delayed on the steamship until the Wrens were old enough to fly away and not be bothered by the clatter of hammers or saws.

Plans for the future depend on a few things, one being if Chris can sell his piece of work.

"I want $11,000 for the Wren," said Chris, "I am not all that interested in profit. I would like to see someone try and buy one somewhere else. There aren't any."

"I want to take the money and build me an airplane, not steam!" he laughed. "I am a retired pilot. Piloting a plane and a steamboat are two different things entirely. I guess my first love is flying."

When asked about plans for starting excursions on the boat, Chris said, "We have thought about it, but there are a lot of problems involved not insolvable, but problems. I would like to get one started. I think it could be a good tourist attraction. I would have to move closer to the highway (Arkansas 7 South) where she could be seen. Just a small ride around the area for an hour or two and I think people would really go for it."

Matthews Is Blamed for Party Ills

By GEORGE WELLS

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — About half-way up the Worthen Building, in an office that looks down on two multistory parking lots and faces the Tower Building, the party leader sits in a well-appointed office.

On the walls are four color Riddle Monument

England's famous Stonehenge Monument, sometimes called the "Riddle of Salisbury Plain," is a group of huge, rough-cut stones. No one knows exactly who placed them there or when. Some scholars date Stonehenge as early as 1800 B.C.

photographs of his children. On the desk are a pile of papers and reference books.

September, before last, Charles D. Matthews, then 28 and a member of the state legislature, was pulled out of relative obscurity and selected to reunite the Democratic party and especially the youth of Arkansas with the Democratic party.

During the party convention here, he was named chairman of the state committee. This coming September, he will step down—"the proper terminology would be, I'm not standing for re-election," he says.

The convention could ask him to stay on, but it is not likely. There has been criticism within the party about how Matthews has run the party.

At least one party professional says that this is one of the reasons the would-be candidates for governor are having trouble raising money. He said the "fat cats" — those who usually contribute heavily in campaigns — "just won't work with Charles Matthews."

Matthews says he cannot "give you one unpleasant incident that has happened" in his working with party members.

One is tempted to suspect that disgruntled party officials are looking for a scapegoat.

As is anyone in politics who has reached some position of power or authority, there has been talk about Matthews.

He is being squeezed out of the part, some say.

Others opine that he is frustrated by his inability to make peace with the party.

Some say that he simply is sick of politics.

He says he has his own reasons for leaving the helm, or at least not seeking to stay on as party chairman.

"I've done just as much as I can possibly do in the time allowed ... It's a very tiring job, it requires a lot of effort ... It's a very expensive job. All the travel and various expenses entailed in holding down this job come out of your own pocket."

And: "I've been in politics for four years. I think it would be helpful if I were to get out for a time, walk away from it and obtain some fresh perspective."

On the feeling within the party about his chairmanship:

"There's been some opposition. What the state committee for the past two years has been trying to do has been unique, it's been unprecedented."

"It required an awful lot of persuasion. Not everyone was persuaded."

The unique, unprecedented program centered around trying to broaden the base and financial support of the party. Matthews said he felt the people who opposed this program were "well motivated."

But, partly, because of this "opposition within our own ranks," he said, "we haven't achieved our goals."

As evidence that some headway is being made to broaden the base, Matthews says: "Not one individual has contributed more than 1 per cent of our funds to date."

But the party staff is not on par with the Republicans because of the money shortage.

"I knew and I think the state committee realized that we could never match the Republican's funds," he says. "But we do have a number of people we can call on ... who have the potential, the knowledge, and the background to help us in this effort."

"Where the Republicans have their money, we have this well of people."

Then there is the problem of unity. "The unification of the Democratic party is probably an impossible goal," Matthews says, pointing out that he is talking about political philosophy.

"We can have a certain unity of purpose in organizing for the successful campaign of our nominees in the general election," he adds.

Unification he admits, is more difficult in the Democratic party—after the runoff election—than in the Republican party. This he attributes to the wide-open primaries engaged in every two years by the Democrats.
